DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
2. It is unclear what is meant by "at least the second component enhances the physical properties of the composition". It is unclear to what "physical" properties the applicant is referring since there are may different ones, and the applicant needs to be clearer about what is specifically being affected. The specification merely gives examples of physical properties (e.g. "such as"); it does not provide a clear definition.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees.
4. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).
5. A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

6. Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

1. Claims 1-8 and 10 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-28 of copending Application No. 10/795,935. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other. The instant claims are generic to the type of structure formed, and the copending application is directed to fibers. The instant claimed encompass fiber structures, and it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have to have made the claimed structures in the form of fibers when fabric or other fiber articles such as ropes having good slip properties were desired.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

8. Claims 1-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Miyama et al. (5,763,011).

9. Miyama et al. teach urethane resins having lubricating particles therein (figure 3). The composition is heated and then the particles bloom to the surface.

10. Regarding claim 4, the addition of silicone oil will help slow the curing of the composition and make it flow better and form a more level surface.

11. Regarding claim 10, the materials taught by Miyama et al. are used in the automotive art. The applicant does not require any particular form of sporting equipment. The automotive parts taught by Miyama fall in the general category of sporting equipment since automobiles are used in sporting events such as races.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

12. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

13. Claim 7 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miyama et al. (5,763,011).

14. Miyama et al. teach heating the composition to cause the particles (14) to move to the surface and become exposed. The applicants claim "radio frequency induction of energy" the examiner interprets as being the same as heating with radio frequency energy. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have heated the materials taught by Miyama et al. with radio waves since this is a method of heating and there does not appear to be anything special about the method used.
